Looking Ahead: Sweepstakes and Giveaway Marketing Trends in 2023

That's it for the digital marketing and sweepstakes statistics, but here are a few things that you should look for in giveaway marketing trends over the next few months:

1. As brands' martech spending increases, there will be more platforms available that will allow brands to blend together the best elements of giveaways, social media, entertainment, and online shopping. The metaverse in particular will likely be a part of a growing number of promotions from brands looking to move beyond the Meta hype to deliver some compelling customer experiences via sweepstakes and contests in online virtual worlds.
2. As 5G mobile connectivity increases among consumers, we can expect more immersive social media contest experiences. Contest and giveaway marketers will also increasingly incorporate experiential marketing into their promotions with the goal of collecting creative UGC for future use in the brand's marketing campaigns.
3. U.S. companies are expected to increase advertising spend by USD $80 billion over the next few years, accounting for 48% of global adspend by 2024. As a result, brands should consider investing in martech that can help them acquire and retain new customers as competitive buyer keyword CPCs increase.

And we've finally reached the end! Hopefully, this list helps give you some greater insights as to what goes on in the world of sweepstakes, contests, and raffles. Giveaway marketing strategy allows you to leverage many different digital marketing and offline experiences to engage customers and fans.
